I spent quite a long time building a database of aspects and other astrological definitions. I found several portions of databases floating around the net and stitched them all together into one complete dataset.

Once I had the completed data, I began work on this site. 1 month later, the strange house was born. 7 months later, my traffic still sucks :P

I'm guessing that WinStar a windows program. We don't do windows here. This is a Linux powered site.
